About this document

This document presents a survey of 70 colleges and universities across the United States of America that offer need- and/or merit-based scholarships to undergraduate international students. The list of institutions included is not comprehensive; it is meant to represent a diverse list of large, small, private and public institutions that can serve as a starting point for students as they explore scholarship opportunities.

Listed in alphabetical order, each entry includes basic profile information about the institution, information related to acceptance rates and standardized testing requirements, and information of available grants and scholarships. The scholarship information is subject to change, and students are highly encouraged to review or request additional information from institutions of interest. Students are also encouraged to request information on SAT Subject Test requirements for institutions, since these requirements can vary by major or by school.

This document was inspired by the author's interviews with high school students who live in Mandra Attikis, Greece, who expressed their wish to find a way to study abroad in the United States. The interviews were conducted as part of the author's grade 9/10 school project to assess Greek students' college and career aspirations in the context of their country's economic recession.

Copyright statement: All scholarship information was obtained directly from the institution websites; all of the images included are under the "free to use or share" license category.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Not available for international students.
Merit-based	UA merit scholarships are open to all students and international students have the same opportunity to compete just as their domestic counterparts. International incoming first time freshmen who meet the December 15 scholarship priority deadline, have a qualifying score on the ACT or SAT and have at least a 3.5 cumulative high school GPA are eligible for the following merit-based scholarships: Capstone, Collegiate, Foundation in Excellence, UA Scholar and Presidential ranging from $6,000-$26,000 per year. These scholarships are awarded automatically based on an applicant's GPA and test scores. Students who submit a scholarship application and all required supporting documents by the deadline may also be eligible for limited university and departmental scholarships. International students are also eligible for the Academic Elite Scholarships (8 academic elite scholars are named each year), which are awarded for 4 years.

	ACT Range for middle 50%	34-36
	SAT Subject tests	Math (Level 2) & 1 science

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Caltech has need-sensitive admission for international citizens. The total amount of financial aid funds is limited for international students, and the Institute remains committed to meeting 100% of the demonstrated need of all admitted students. This limitation may result in financial need being a factor in the admission decisions. Please note that: (a) An international citizen who plans to apply for financial aid at any time during their undergraduate career must apply for it at the time that they apply for admission. (b) An international citizen who applies for aid and is offered financial assistance for the first year will be eligible to reapply for financial aid in subsequent years. (b) An international citizen who applies as a freshman applicant through the Early Action plan should not expect financial aid. If you are an international citizen who plans to apply for financial aid, you must apply through Regular Decision.
Merit-based	Caltech does not offer merit-based scholarships

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Chapman offers limited need-based aid (up to $15,000 per year) for international applicants.
Merit-based	International students are eligible for merit-based scholarships during the admission process. First year applicants are eligible for merit-based scholarships up to $32,000 per year. Merit-based scholarships are based primarily on a student's grades and test scores, although there are a number of additional factors that are also considered. Additionally, department scholarships are awarded by major.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	CMC is committed to meeting 100% of demonstrated need of all admitted first-year students, regardless of citizenship. However, as a "need aware" institution, CMC takes into account a student's ability to pay the full-cost of attendance as a part of admission criteria for applicants that are not U.S. citizens or U.S. Permanent Residents. Any student that needs financial assistance to cover the full-cost of attendance must indicate that they are applying for need-based financial aid on their admission application and follow the financial aid application procedures for international students. Students who do not apply for or do not receive financial aid upon admission are not eligible to be considered for financial aid in future years while enrolled at CMC.
Merit-based	Merit-based scholarships are available for first-year applicants including the Interdisciplinary Science Scholarship; the McKenna Scholarship; the Seaver Scholarship. A blend of need-based and merit awards can be seen here.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Financial assistance for international applicants is limited and is only awarded at the time of admission. Your aid offer will be renewed each year for up to 8 semesters as long as you enroll full time and make satisfactory academic progress toward your degree. Financial aid is not re-evaluated for international students. The CSS/Financial Aid PROFILE is required for international students who wish to be considered for financial aid.
Merit-based	International first-year applicants are eligible for merit-based scholarships ranging from $10,000 to $27,000 annually, and the highest award is the James E. Scripps Scholarship . Scholarships are awarded to applicants whose strong academic performance and school or community involvement indicate that they will add vitality and intellectual value to campus. Scripps does not require an earlier deadline for scholarship consideration. Merit scholarships are only available to first-year applicants.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Provides financial aid for a limited number of international students.
Merit-based	The International and John Greenleaf Whittier Merit Scholarships: Whittier College annually awards a number of scholarships to students, including those given on criteria of academic merit, international citizenship, year of entry and other designations. The amount you may be eligible for is based on the Office of Admissions criteria and typically remains the same each year.
Work-award Work-study	Whittier Work Award: The student employment program at Whittier College is designed to provide students with on-campus employment while attending Whittier College. Students gain valuable work experience, while participating directly in the life of the Whittier community. Work-study is a College-administered program, through which you earn your award allocation to pay for your educational expenses. You may work a maximum of 20 hours per week during periods of enrollment. Job positions vary and include opportunities in research, tutoring, community service, administration and office operations, computing, and library services.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Emory University offers need-based financial aid awards to a small, select group of international students. International students who apply for need-based financial aid will be reviewed as a separate cohort. In the admission process, the university is “need-aware” for international students. This means that when reviewing international applications, Emory University takes into account whether an applicant has requested financial assistance. As a result of this need-aware approach, Emory’s admission rate for international applicants requesting need-based financial aid is notably lower than the rate of acceptance for those not requesting aid.
Merit-based	International applicants are encouraged to apply for merit-based scholarships (including the Emory opportunity award ; Liberal arts scholarships ) through the Emory University Scholar Programs. As part of these programs, the university offers partial/full merit-based scholarships.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	If you apply for financial aid and you are offered admission, you will receive a grant-based financial award that meets your full demonstrated need. In the admissions process, the university is “need-sensitive” for international candidates. This means that when reviewing international applications, UChicago takes into account whether an applicant has requested financial assistance. The vast majority of financial aid is given out in the form of need-based aid.
Merit-based	Merit scholarships are partial-tuition scholarships that may be a single lump-sum award, or a renewable annual award. Merit scholarships are considered independently of an applicant’s financial situation, so if you think you may require financial assistance, you must submit an application for need-based financial aid. All first-year applicants are automatically considered for merit scholarships; no additional application is required.

Need-based	Wabash awards a generous but limited number of Wabash institutional grants to high ability applicants demonstrating significant financial need. A typical financial aid package may consist of a combination of an offer of campus employment and Wabash grants in addition to any merit-based scholarships. International students must be aware that an aid award will not cover travel expenses, summer maintenance, and personal expenses.
Merit-based	The Trustee International Scholarships: These are merit-based scholarship awards covering total direct cost of four year attendance, including tuition, fees, and on-campus room and board are offered. Presidential International Scholarships: These are merit-based scholarships ranging up to $25,000 per year. All Presidential Scholarships are renewable up to eight semesters and require satisfactory academic progress. Applicants whose families demonstrate the ability to cover cost unmet by Wabash financial assistance will be given additional consideration.

Need-based	Based upon a review of academic qualifications, financial need, and availability of student aid resources, an applicant may be considered for financial assistance. This assistance may include a self-help component, consisting of a student loan and student employment, along with University scholarship assistance. The financial aid and admissions decisions are done together, typically in March.
Merit-based	Notre Dame offers merit scholarships to a limited number of international students who demonstrate exceptional accomplishment, leadership, commitment to service, and intellectual promise. Notre Dame's limited number of merit-based scholarship opportunities for international students are highly competitive. Ranging from $5,000 per year to the full cost of attendance, these scholarships are typically renewable for four years and recipients may be invited to participate in leadership development and enrichment opportunities as an additional benefit of their award. Selections for all merit-based scholarships are made as part of the admission process and no separate application is required for consideration.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	The university admits a large number of international students who apply for and receive a substantial amount of financial aid. It guarantees to meet 100% of all admitted first-year students' demonstrated financial need for all four years, regardless of citizenship. To be considered for financial aid, international applicants must indicate their intention to apply for financial aid at the time of their admission application. International students who were admitted with no request for Columbia financial aid may not subsequently change their status to apply for aid, even if their family financial circumstances change. The average award for international students who apply for and receive financial aid is $57,727. A financial aid package typically includes a Columbia grant, which does not have to be repaid, as well as a student term-time job.
Merit-based	There are no academic, athletic or talent-based institutional scholarships.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Beginning with the class enrolling in fall 2017, students who are admitted and have applied for financial aid and have demonstrated financial need will receive a financial aid package that meets 100% of their demonstrated financial need (Cornell University does not provide partial financial aid awards). Decisions about financial aid for newly entering international undergraduates are made at the time of admission and are not changed for the duration of the undergraduate program. It is not possible to apply for financial aid from Cornell after enrollment.
Merit-based	Cornel does not offer merit, athletic, or talent based aid to students.
Off-Campus Employment (in your field of study only)	After having been in F1 status for at one full academic year or J1 student status after a semester, you are eligible to apply for off-campus work authorization in your field of study only. This could be full-time during the summer and the winter semester break, or part-time (limited to 20 hours of total employment per week, including any on-campus positions) during the academic year.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Princeton considers U.S. citizens and non-U.S. citizens alike in the admission and financial process. In fact, Princeton is one of only a handful of schools in the United States that do not limit financial aid for international undergraduates, treating international and U.S. students the same in the financial aid process. The full need of all admitted international students is met the same as it is for students from the United States. Your family's ability to pay for your university education is not a factor in the admission decision.
Merit-based	Princeton does not offer academic or athletic merit scholarships.

*Skidmore College is test-optional. However, it requires standardized testing (SAT or ACT) for international students other than those who have attended an English-language-based school for at least three years. Applicants for the Porter Presidential Scholarships in Science and Mathematics are encouraged to submit SAT/ACT and any SAT subject tests in math and science.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Skidmore College offers a very limited amount of aid for international students and therefore it is a highly competitive process. Skidmore annually gives more than $43 million in financial aid on the basis of demonstrated financial need. The average 2017–18 first-year financial aid package for international students was over $60,000. Skidmore is a Davis partner school of the United World Colleges.
Merit-based	Filene Music Scholarship: Four to six $60,000 scholarships are awarded each year through a performance competition coordinated by the Department of Music. The Porter/Wachenheim Award in Science and Mathematics is awarded on the basis of superior accomplishment and exceptional promise in the sciences or mathematics.

Need-based	Union College meets 100% of the demonstrated financial need for admitted students but is need-aware in the admissions process. This means that students' financial information is considered along with the other components of the application during the admission evaluation. Awards range from $13,000 to $62,000 per academic year. While the College asks students to contribute a minimum of $7,500 per year towards their education, applicants who can contribute $30,000 or more per year will be most competitive for admission. A large percentage of the financial aid is awarded in the two early decision rounds.
Merit-based	Merit scholarships are awarded to select international students each year and are valued at $10,000 - $20,000 per year. All admitted students are considered for merit aid through the admissions process; no separate applications are required.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Each year, over 1000 international students apply for admission and financial assistance, and 35-45 are admitted with funding. For those foreign citizens with financial need who enrolled in the class of 2022, the average scholarship was approximately $51,247, plus a Vassar student loan of $3,500, and eligibility for a campus job earning $2,400, for a total average financial aid award of $57,335. Of course, each individual student's financial aid package will depend on his/her family's financial circumstances. Vassar meets 100% of the candidate's demonstrated financial need for all four years. Students who are neither US citizens nor permanent residents who wish to be considered for financial aid at any time during their four years at Vassar should apply at the same time that they apply for admission. Since Vassar is not need-blind in the admission of non-US citizens, financial need may be a factor in the evaluation process for admission. Therefore, those admitted without financial aid subsequently would not be eligible to receive Vassar funding during their years at the college, except under the most extreme circumstances.
Merit-based	Vassar College does not give scholarships based on achievement in a particular arena (such as sports or music or even academics).

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Financial resources for international students are limited. Each year Duke University expects to enroll 20 to 25 international students whose full demonstrated need has been met with a university-provided need-based aid package. All international applicants admitted with "no financial aid interest" and all international transfer students will be ineligible to apply for financial aid for any year of undergraduate study.
Merit-based	The Karsh International Scholars Program provides eight semesters of full tuition, room and board, and mandatory fees to Duke University. Scholars also have access to generous funding for domestic and international summer experiences, including opportunities for independent research both in the summer and during the academic year. The scholarship covers tuition, room and board, mandatory fees, and three summers of funding for research.

Need-based	Not available for international students
Merit-based	International students are eligible for most merit-based scholarships. No separate application is required.. There are four major scholarships at Wake Forest that are open to international students: the Reynolds, Carswell, Stamps, and Gordon scholarships. However these are available to the entire applicant pool and are highly selective (less than 3% of first year applicants receive these scholarships). Successful applicants will have achieved unusual distinction in the classroom and beyond. They have pursued the most challenging curriculum available to them and have achieved grade point averages (often the top 1 percent) and testing scores that place them in the top few percentage points in comparison to their peers. Further, potential candidates have typically been leaders in a variety of extracurricular pursuits and won recognition for their abilities at the regional, state, or national level.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Kenyon offers significant need-based financial aid to international students applying as first year students. If admitted, Kenyon meets 100% of a candidate's demonstrated financial need for all four years. Since Kenyon is not need-blind in the admission of non-U.S. citizens, financial need may be a factor in the evaluation process for admission.
Merit-based	Merit-based awards are given to the most exceptional international students and include the Kenyon Full and Half Tuition Scholarships; the Kenyon Honor, Science, and the Distinguished Academic Scholarships; the Kenyon Promise Scholarships , and more. You do not need to complete any additional paperwork to be considered for merit-based aid. International students can also be considered for talent scholarships in music, art and writing. You must apply separately for the talent scholarships. Kenyon is not permitted to offer any athletic scholarships to any students, domestic or international, by the guidelines of the NCAA Division III.

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Oberlin provides grants scholarships, loans and on-campus employment to enable international students to meet all demonstrated financial need. In recent years about half of its international students received institutional financial aid, with the average aid package covering about two-thirds of the cost of attendance. The international admission process is extremely competitive-particularly for student with high financial need. Fewer than 15 percent of international applicants are admitted in a typical year.
Merit-based	Oberlin College has several merit-based scholarships for which eligible international students may be considered. These are the: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>-The Eduardo Chivambo Mondlane Scholarship</li> <li>-The Ambassador Edwin O. ### Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	Bryn Mawr College awards need-based financial aid to international students which may consist of grants, loans, and campus employment. The College meets the full demonstrated need for all admitted students and there is a great deal of competition for these funds. Bryn Mawr College is “need sensitive.” This means that the amount of aid a student requests of the College may affect the admission decision. An international student must declare her intent to apply for financial aid on the Common Application at the time she applies for admission.
Merit-based	When you submit your application, you will automatically be considered for merit scholarships. These scholarships range from $12,000-$30,000 per year and are awarded for a maximum of eight semesters.

Need-based	In each class Bucknell considers all applicants for financial assistance, but only a small number of highly qualified international applicants are ultimately chosen to receive financial assistance. Bucknell is currently not "need-blind" for international students. A family's financial contribution toward a student's educational costs at Bucknell is therefore part of the admissions decisions, along with other factors such as academic achievements, standardized test scores, inclinations for leadership and service, unique perspectives and character qualities, and more.
Merit-based	A few merit scholarships are awarded each year as well, and all applicants are considered for such awards. There is no separate application process to receive an academic merit award. Merit scholarships include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>-The Presidential Fellowships</li> <li>-Arts Merit Scholarships</li> <li>-Bucknell Women in Science and Engineering Scholarships</li> <li>-PricewaterhouseCoopers Scholarships</li> <li>-Dean's Scholarships</li> </ul>

Grants/Scholarships Available for International Students

Need-based	The amount of available financial aid is limited. The number of international students awarded need-based aid depends on the pool of applicants each year. Reporting of SAT or ACT test scores is required to qualify for financial aid. To give you a perspective on standardized-test-score minimums, we suggest combined Critical Reading and Math SAT score of 1350 or higher, or and ACT composite of 32 or higher.
Merit-based	International students also are eligible to compete for Dickinson's highly selective non-need-based merit scholarships. You do not need a separate application to be considered for these scholarships. Your admissions application will be reviewed based on academic performance, strength of high-school curriculum, standardized testing and demonstrated leadership in school and community activities. Awarded merit-based scholarships include: The John Dickinson Scholarship; The Benjamin Rush Scholarship; The John Montgomery Scholarship; The Founders Scholarship , and more.

Need-based	International students can apply for need based financial aid, though the process is highly competitive and funds are limited. Need based financial aid awards are composed of grants (money that do not have to be paid back to the college), institutional loans, and work study. Packages vary greatly from student to student. Financial aid goes towards the cost of tuition, room, and board at Gettysburg.
Merit-based	Merit based scholarships are awarded to international students based on their grades in their high school courses and their standardized test scores. Merit scholarships for international students are the same as those for our domestic applicants. There are four levels, and range from $10,000/yr to $26,000K/yr. These are the only scholarships awarded to international applicants.

Need-based	Lafayette College does accept a number of financially needy students and will meet the demonstrated need of all admitted students, up to and including full tuition, room and board, books, and supplies. However, the college takes into account an international family's ability to pay when making admission decisions. Lafayette meets the full demonstrated financial need of international students through a combination of loan, job, and grant aid. The awarding of aid is extremely competitive. Students selected for admission and funding have completed the most rigorous secondary school curriculum available. They have secured excellent marks/grades, have (or will have) graduated among the top of their classes, and have excelled on their examinations. Applications from international students are read on an accelerated schedule so admissions decisions can be mailed promptly. A priority review will be given to applications submitted prior to the deadline.
Merit-based	International students are eligible to receive merit scholarships including the Marquis Awards and athletic scholarships. No separate application is needed.

Need-based	If you are applying as a first-year international student, need-based financial aid is available. Admission to Swarthmore is need-aware for international citizens. Regardless of citizenship, if you are accepted to Swarthmore, the College will meet 100 percent of your determined need with a financial aid award up to—and including—full tuition, room and board, books, supplies, and transportation. The average financial aid award for international students entering the Class of 2022 was $63,922. Our financial aid packages do not include loans. You do not need to complete a special application for financial aid because our financial awards are determined based on your financial need rather than academic merit.
Merit-based	The Thomas B. McCabe '15 Achievement Award: recognizes applicants to Swarthmore who have exhibited exceptional academic achievement, character, and leadership qualities, especially in service to their school and local community.

Need-based	If you're an international student whose family requires financial support to afford Penn, we're here to help. Each year, Penn commits millions of dollars in undergraduate aid funds to support international students. International applicants who are not citizens or permanent residents of the United States, Canada, or Mexico, who anticipate the need for financial aid at any point during their four-year course of study at Penn, must apply for aid when they apply for admission. For admitted students, Penn meets demonstrated need for eight semesters or four years through a grant-based aid package as long as they continue to demonstrate financial need, making it possible to graduate without debt. Students must reapply for financial aid each academic year.
Merit-based	Penn does not award scholarships based on academic or athletic merit.

Need-based	Freshmen international students who are applying for admissions are welcome to apply for limited need-based financial aid. Although a student applying for aid may be academically admissible, not all students will be awarded financial aid due to the limited availability of funding. In addition, all students receiving funds are expected to contribute personally toward educational and personal expenses while attending Villanova University.
Merit-based	International freshmen students are eligible to compete for and be considered for merit-based scholarships such as the Presidential Scholarship (valued at tuition, general fee, room, board and books for eight consecutive semesters), and the Saint Augustine Scholarship (partial tuition) along with US citizens and permanent residents. Due to the high number of eligible applicants, not all students who meet the minimum criteria are offered scholarships. Athletic scholarships should be pursued and arranged directly with the Athletic Department.

Need-based	Southwestern has very limited need based financial aid funds for international students.
Merit-based	Southwestern's primary financing option for international students is through merit-based scholarships . Southwestern University considers all students for a merit scholarship through a holistic review process, with emphasis on academic performance, rigor of classes, SAT or ACT scores, personal essay, leadership, extracurricular and volunteer activities, a visit to campus, legacy connections, United Methodist Church membership, achievement/recognition in national programs, and other elements that help us get to know you better. For your convenience, your application for admission also serves as your application for our general merit-based scholarships. No extra forms or essays needed! Merit scholarship notifications are typically sent electronically within 72 hours of a student's offer of admission. Scholarship amounts go up to $27,500 annually.
